#2 The example

You will be turning a prompt formula like:

"Act like [desired expertise]. Write a [needed type of content] on [a specific topic] for [a targeted persona] to [get a desired result]. Add [the most optimized formatting for this type of content] to [desired result]. Use [needed tone of voice]. Prioritized one unique and uncommon idea as a topic. Ban generic ideas. Ban introduction: jump right into the core of the content."

to

"Act like a football copywriter. Write a LinkedIn post on the legend Didier Drogba for Chelsea football fans to sign up for the waitlist of your upcoming Netflix series on his career. Add lists and line breaks to make it much easier to read and understand. Use an enthusiastic, nostalgic, and passionate tone of voice. Prioritized one unique and uncommon idea as a topic. Ban generic ideas. Ban introduction: jump right into the core of the content."

#3 Your needs

Always maintain the structure of the prompt formula and only replace the words in square brackets.

Now generate a list numbered from 1 to 5 prompts without executing them for a National Geographic photo shoot on hibernating bears in Yellowstone park.

Each prompt must be on a completely different topic.

STEP #3

Call out the mistakes.

- ✓ Tell GPT what he missed.
- ✓ Ask for an upgraded version.
- ✓ Iterate until your final result.

1

It's too small. I need a much bigger content.

Sure, here's a longer and more detailed version of prompt number 5:

bears emerge from their dens and begin to feed on plants and animals. This is also a great time to view the bears, as they are more active and visible.

3

A 2-steps prompt:

Great. Act like an expert SEO copywriter.

You know the principles of copywriting & how to best rank your article in Google.

Could you upgrade the whole article you just shared? The longer version.

Great. Implement these changes.

RESULTS:

Best-of ChatGPT answers.

Remember to NOT copy /

Consider ETFs that Focus on Capital Preservation

Capital preservation is another critical consideration for those nearing retirement age. You'll want to preserve the capital you've accumulated over the years while still generating income. Look for ETFs that focus on capital preservation by investing in less volatile assets, such as high-quality bonds and defensive stocks

Conclusion

Selecting the right ETFs for retirement planning requires careful consideration of several factors.

When you're nearing retirement age, it's important to prioritize income, capital preservation, and low expense ratios. Diversification is also crucial, as it can help you reduce your risk of losses and provide a more stable stream of income. By following these
