STORY SPRINT PARTY

READY ...

00:00: Start with Sketch Your Idea: Limbering Up video
00:12: Sketch Your Idea: Do the Work video
00:20: Sketch Your Idea: Cool Down video
00:30: Write your first scene

SET ...

00:40: Develop Your Idea: Limbering Up video
00:48: Develop Your Idea: Do the Work video
00:55: Storyboard Your Plot
01:05: Developing Ideas: Cool Down video

01:15: SNACK BREAK!!

GO!

01:30: Sprint One video + write!
01:45: Sprint Two video + write!
02:00: Sprint Three video + write!
02:25: Sprint Four video + write!

CROSS THE FINISH LINE

02:40: Smooth Out Rough Edges: Intro
02:45: Smooth Out Rough Edges: Choose Your Approach
03:00: Finish with Make it a Book!

If you can't finish a section of your story on time, don't worry! Keep pushing yourself to write fast, but if you're not 100% done at the end of the sprint, you can always go back and finish scenes later.

If you and your friends want to add extra time here and there, you're welcome to "break the rules." Remember, racing the clock in a story sprint is designed to be fun! There's truly no right or wrong way to do it.

OTHER SCHEDULE OPTIONS

The longer you spend on your sprint, the more challenging your goal can be. Each time you take on a sprint, set a specific writing craft goal that takes your current skills to the next level, such as:

- a believable criminal character
- an intriguing, unique detective
- a suspenseful plot with twists and turns
- a satisfying, well-crafted resolution

FOUR SESSIONS

We recommend that you spend 1.5 to 2 hours in each session.

- Session One: Sketch Your Idea
Develop Your Idea
- Session Two: Sprint One
Sprint Two
- Session Three: Sprint Three
Sprint Four
- Session Four: Smooth Rough Edges
Make it a Book

TWO WEEKS

- Week One: Sketch Your Idea
Develop Your Idea
Sprint One
Sprint Two
- Week Two: Sprint Three
Sprint Four
Smooth Rough Edges
Make it a Book

SIX WEEKS

We recommend 1 - 2 hours per week broken into 30 - 60 minute sessions.

- Week One: Sketch Your Idea
- Week Two: Develop Your Idea
- Week Three: Sprint One
Sprint Two
- Week Four: Sprint Three
Sprint Four
- Week Five: Smooth Rough Edges
- Week Six: Make it a Book

HOW THE MYSTERY MIGHT SHOW UP

FIRST SCENE LOCATION

Think about locations that will show your character's strengths and weaknesses.

MAP THE CLUES

Draw a bird's eye view of your setting, using labels to add the important clues and details.
Where is the mystery discovered, and where is it ultimately solved?

OPTIONS:

SMOOTH
ROUGH
EDGES

What feels unbelievable in your reveal?

How much time is there before the worst happens? _____

How might you make that deadline more obvious? _____

_____

_____

Brainstorm mistakes and mishaps you might add to the story.

FOR STUCK MOMENTS ...

Sprints are all about speed, but sometimes you hit a wall. When you need to slow down and think, these bonus brainstorming and planning sheets are here to help.

ABOUT MY SETTING

Think about the world of your story in general, here. What details will help your reader see and feel the tone of the time and place?

Objects You Might See

Weather You Might Experience

Sounds You Might Hear

Smells or Tastes You Might Encounter

CREATE A SETTING

Brainstorm sensory details to bring a scene's location to life.

Details that show what the place looks like

Details that show how the place sounds

Details that show how the place smells

Details that show how this place feels

MOTIVES

Brainstorm reasons your criminal acts the way they do.

If they're motivated by greed or power ...

If they're motivated by revenge ...

If they're motivated by loyalty ...

If they're motivated by a "cause" ...
